Aiello of Margulies Perruzzi becomes a licensed architect in Massachusetts

June 18, 2021 - Construction Design & Engineering

Matt Aiello

Boston, MA According to Margulies Perruzzi, Matt Aiello has earned his registration from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and is now a licensed architect.

“Matt was an architectural intern with our firm and we were happy to welcome him back as an architectural designer once he finished his education,” said Daniel Perruzzi, Jr., AIA, LEED AP, principal and senior partner at Margulies Perruzzi. “He is a detail-oriented designer with strong technical and visualization skills. We congratulate Matt on earning his registration and becoming a licensed architect and are thrilled to continue our collaboration with him.”

Since joining Margulies Perruzzi in 2018, Aiello has worked on a variety of large corporate headquarter projects, including master planning, exterior renovations, and interior fit outs with clients such as Hobbs Brook Real Estate and P&G Gillette.
