What your firm does now and its plans for the future: For the last 25 years, Perkins Eastman has been recognized as the leader in several project types including education, healthcare, commercial and hospitality. As the leader of the housing practice for the Stamford office, I have worked on a range of housing projects - from affordable mixed-use to luxury high-rise. We take pride in providing housing designs with innovative, award-winning solutions. Our experience in neighborhood planning and development gives us the ability to understand the larger context and involve community participants and development organizations in the design process. In the future, I hope to participate in more sustainable design housing and community projects.
