The Benjamin and VIA - Boston, MA

The Benjamin and VIA are arguably Boston's most high profile developments and are cornerstones of the Seaport District, where over 20 blocks of retail, office, and residential space are coming to life.

“The Seaport District is without a doubt ‘the new Boston.’ Since we broke ground in 2014, the neighborhood has become all the more desirable for its innovative residential, retail, and commercial space, not to mention its free urban programming in everything from fitness to tech. Upon opening in 2017, The Benjamin and VIA will create a residential experience that greatly enhances the excitement of this neighborhood and sets a new standard for the City of Boston,” said Heather Boujoulian, senior vice president and director of development investment management at Berkshire Group.

Standing at 22 and 20 stories respectively, both The Benjamin and VIA were designed by Elkus Manfredi Architects. The towers boast modern glass architecture and are being built for LEED Silver Certification. Residences have plans to include over one acre of landscaped courtyards.

Located between the buildings is Courthouse Sq., a 17,000 s/f open space that will serve as a key pedestrian link between Seaport Blvd. and Northern Ave.

Residents of The Benjamin and VIA will have a location with direct access to downtown as well as to the I-93 and I-90 interchange.
