

Cameron joins Grubb & Ellis as vice president

May 19, 2010 - Front Section

According to Grubb & Ellis Co., Jason Cameron has joined the company as vice president, office group, effective immediately.

In his new role, Cameron will be responsible for landlord and tenant representation in the central business district.

"Jason has a strong track record in both agency leasing and tenant representation in downtown Boston, making him a great addition to our team," said Stephen Brodsky, executive V.P. and managing director of Grubb & Ellis.

Cameron added, "Grubb & Ellis has a very entrepreneurial culture that works well with my business objectives. I look forward to leveraging the company's reputation and full-service platform to help grow our presence in the Boston CBD."

Cameron, 38, began his career in commercial real estate in 1999 with Spaulding & Slye, which was later acquired by Jones Lang LaSalle in 2005. He received his bachelor's degree from Saint Michael's College and is a member of the Commercial Brokers Association and the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. He is on the board of directors of South Shore Playhouse Associates, a not-for-profit organization that supports arts and education in Southeastern Massachusetts. About Grubb & Ellis Company
