Integrated Builders completes 80,000 s/f interior office renovation project for Harris Corp.

September 30, 2010 - Owners Developers & Managers

Integrated Builders, a construction management, design-build and general contracting firm concentrating on the corporate, data centers, laboratory, retail and manufacturing markets in suburban Boston, recently completed an 80,000 s/f interior office renovation for Harris Corp. at 150 Apollo Dr.

Harris Corp., headquartered in Melbourne, Fla., is an international communications and information technology company serving government and commercial markets in more than 150 countries.

"Integrated Builders completely renovated the Chelmsford offices of Harris Corporation," said Jay Dacey, president of Integrated Builders. "Renovations included updates to the interior office space, training room, computer room, new carpeting, a reconfiguration of drywall partitions, a new ceiling and new paint."

Integrated Builders worked in close collaboration with Mark Forth, managing director of Boston architectural firm IA Interior Architects.

Integrated Builders provides construction management, design/build and general contracting services to discerning developers and owners in various disciplines in commercial markets region wide. From ground-up construction to tenant improvements, rehabilitations and property repositionings, the firm has repeatedly proven its value due to its unique ability to complete projects 'From a Client's Point of View.'
