All-new BioParks Conference to be held June 25th-26th at the American Institute of Architects offices

April 03, 2011 - Front Section

The next big thing for research park professionals will be the all-new BioParks Conference June 25th & 26th at the American Institute of Architects offices.

Join the Association of University Research Parks in advance of the BIO International Convention for a new focus on green technologies, sustainability, biotechnology development and growing your park in the 21st century.

Bio GreenTech Parks will feature the brand new AURP Design Showcase and a power-packed program you won't want to miss.

For more information on the conference visit www.AURP.net.
