Cooperstown Environmental moves offices to meet growth

April 21, 2011 - Green Buildings

Cooperstown Environmental LLC has moved its offices at 23 Main St. to meet the firm's growth which has resulted in additional staff (10 employees currently) and the need for larger space (2,000 s/f).

James Curtis, executive vice president of Cooperstown Environmental LLC, said "Our new location reflects our growth and the success of the firm's approach to provide quality services to address our clients' environmental and engineering needs. This new location, with its proximity to Andover's many businesses and amenities, is expected to be a benefit not only to our employees but our clients as well. We look forward to working with local businesses and towns, law firms, and others as we continue our growth."

Cooperstown moved to the building known as the Bank of America building after its primary tenant and is located directly in the center of Andover's commercial district.

Cooperstown Environmental LLC is an environmental engineering consulting firm that provides high-quality, practical, and cost-effective engineering and environmental consulting services to businesses, property owners, institutions, government agencies, and the legal community. The company also has a niche as the leading experts in the Brownfields Tax Credit program. The program began in 1998 as part of an effort to encourage and provide an incentive for the cleanup of contaminated sites, sometimes known as Brownfield sites.
