May 19, 2011 - Connecticut

CresaPartners LLC, one of North America's largest tenant representation firms, has formed a strategic alliance with international real estate advisor Savills, an arrangement that will allow CresaPartners and Savills the ability to provide service to international clients in North America, Europe, and Asia Pacific.

Savills plc is a global real estate services provider listed on the London Stock Exchange. The firm has an international network of more than 200 offices in 40 countries and offers a broad range of specialist advisory, management and transactional services to clients all over the world. Savills has ranked number one in the real estate sector in the UK for eleven years, in a turnover survey by trade publication Estates Gazette and ranks fourth in the European and Global categories.

CresaPartners comprises over 55 offices across North America with over 750 employees. Headquartered in Boston, it was formed in 1993 when leading regional tenant representation firms joined forces. Together, Savills and CresaPartners will have a global alliance of over 250 offices and 22,350 employees.

"This alliance will allow us to provide client service seamlessly across global markets," said Bill Goade, CEO, CresaPartners. "North American clients continue to expand into Asia Pacific and Europe, and Savills' extensive platform of offices and expertise in these markets will provide significant benefits for our clients."

"I just returned from our International Spring Meeting in San Diego where over 325 CresaPartners advisors explored ways to better service our global clients using the Savills platform and the local connections in world wide markets," said Jeffrey Gage, managing principal of the Norwalk office which provides corporate real estate services in Westchester and Fairfield Counties.
