Casco Bay Steel acquires Durastone site

August 04, 2011 - Northern New England

Casco Bay Steel, which began its operations in 1976, and has an bridge component facility in Saco, had a ribbon cutting for the purchase of the former Durastone property. This will enable them to continue the expansion of their operations, while adding an additional 40 employees. Governor LaPage spoke at the opening, as did the vice president of commercial lending at Bangor Savings, and James Gailey city manager.
