BL Companies receives Connecticut Building Congress 2011 Project Team Award

August 04, 2011 - Connecticut

BL Companies received the Connecticut Building Congress (CBC) 2011 Project Team Award, Award of Merit in Major Renovations and Expansions category, for the Mary M. Hooker Environmental Sciences Magnet School.

The CBC Project Team Awards exemplify project team excellence, representing building owners, architects, engineers and constructors. The Connecticut Building Congress recognizes project team members who adopt this close collaboration as an industry standard for improving a project's quality. The winning project teams were recognized for their achievement in project quality excellence through close collaboration.

BL Companies served as lead designer on the project, providing architecture, civil engineering, landscape architecture, transportation engineering and land surveying services.

"I am extremely proud of this team for their hard work and commitment to excellence," said Carolyn Stanworth, president and CEO of BL Companies. "Winning a project team award is especially rewarding. BL Companies prides itself on being able to deliver quality, creativity and expertise to the team. This award is a validation of our dedication to total client satisfaction."
