JM Coull safety program achieves Diamond Level from ABC Mass.

August 18, 2011 - Construction Design & Engineering

JM Coull was named the first and only recipient of the "Diamond Level" safety award by the Associated Builders and Contractors (ABC) of Massachusetts at its Safety Training and Evaluation Process (STEP) Awards banquet.

ABC added the Diamond level to its STEP program last year, with the goal of recognizing member companies that meet the very highest qualifications for safety preparedness and performance. Candidate evaluations are based on incidence rates (accidents) and EMR (experience modification rate) for the application year.

JM Coull has achieved other distinctions conferred by ABC, including Certified Green Contractor (one of only two firms in the state to earn this designation) and Accredited Quality Contractor. To qualify for each certification, JM Coull was required to meet specific standards and undergo independent evaluation.

"One of our core values is 'relentless improvement,' and we use the ABC programs as benchmarks in our ongoing pursuit of that goal," said JM Coull president Andrew Coull. "ABC is continually raising the bar on its standards of excellence. Our industry is fortunate to have a professional organization that encourages and recognizes high level performance."

JM Coull is also a consistent winner in the ABC's annual Excellence in Construction Awards program. Last year, the company's entry took first place honors at the regional level and second place at the national level.

JM Coull specializes in facilities for advanced technology, life sciences, education, health care and manufacturing.
