Mauro joins Residential Properties Ltd. as sales-associate

October 13, 2011 - Rhode Island

Residential Properties Ltd. has hired Edmund Mauro IV. He joins as a full-time sales associate, bringing his passion for real estate and knowledge of the area to his role as rental manager.

Mauro developed an interest in architecture at an early age, and this affection grew into a lifelong love of real estate. He believes that communication is at the core of a seamless real estate transaction, and strives for excellence in this regard. With a specialty in rental properties, Mauro likes to give clients multiple options, so that they may find the best fit for their lifestyle needs.

Even though these properties are only temporary housing solutions, he enjoys being able to help his clients find a house they can make into a home.

Mauro studied economics at the University of Rhode Island. He has previously worked in the rental field, with a concentration in marketing properties, and uses this experience to better serve his clients. He is a member of the Newport County Board of Realtors.
