Stamford of Re/Max Town and Country named president of RI State-Wide Multiple Listing Service

November 10, 2011 - Rhode Island

State-Wide Multiple Listing Service (MLS) has named the installation of its 2012 officers and board of directors. Susan Stamford of Re/Max Town and Country in Cumberland will lead the organization as 2012 president.

Stamford served as the 2009 president of the Northern Rhode Island Board of Realtors and was also the board's 2009 Realtor of the Year. She sits on the board of directors for State-Wide MLS and the R.I. Association of Realtors, and has served on a number of committees for the Northern R.I. Board and the R.I. Association of Realtors.

Other 2012 officers elected to serve include: vice president/secretary, John Silvia of Prudential Prime Properties in Newport; and treasurer, Jeffrey Butler of Butler Realty Group in Warwick.

New and reappointed directors are:

- * Paul Antrop, Gold Key Properties, Cumberland
- * Jane Roach, Jane Roach Real Estate, Newport
- * Jennifer O'Hora Lawrence, Century 21 Access America, Newport
- * Manny Menezes, Exit Realty Consultants, East Providence
- * Donna Vanderbeck, Randall Realtors Real Living, North Kingstown
- * Bruce Lane, Williams and Stuart Real Estate, Cranston.

The new officers and directors will take their post following their installation at the National Association of Realtors annual meeting in Anaheim, CA.

State-Wide MLS facilitates the exchange of real estate information among real estate professionals and provides cutting edge resources and technology to its 4333 members in Rhode Island and nearby states. RILiving.com, the official consumer website of the Rhode Island Association of Realtors and State-Wide MLS, is the premiere site for those looking to buy, rent or sell homes in the Ocean State.
