Lee Kennedy Co. renovating MIT's Singapore University of Technology and Design

November 17, 2011 - Construction Design & Engineering

Lee Kennedy Co. is nearing completion of a $1.9 million renovation for the Mass. Institute of Technology's Singapore University of Technology and Design.

LKCo.'s team performed select demolition before fitting out the third floor of MIT's building N52. The space, designed by architectural firm Gensler, will include office and classroom space, project display space and open lounge areas. The team will install all new HVAC electrical panel distribution and circuitry, general millwork and lab casework along with all new updated finishes.
