Association of Energy Engineers New England Energy Product Showcase to be held on December 7

November 23, 2011 - Green Buildings

The 2011 Association of Energy Engineers New England (AAE-NE) New Energy Product Showcase will be held on Dec. 7 from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Embassy Suites Hotel. The showcase will feature the latest in energy technologies and services to help large commercial, industrial and institutional energy users lower operating costs, reduce their carbon footprints and leverage energy efficiency incentives. This show is a must for building owners and operators, facility managers, architects and energy engineers. AEE-NE holds monthly educational meetings for its members, their clients and the public on a variety of energy-related topics. All are welcome to attend.

In addition, an Energy Certification Breakout Session will provide an introduction to the Certified Energy Manager certification program and review several other AEE certification programs.

Pre-registration for the session is recommended (no additional fee). Become AEE certified and enhance your career! To pre-register for the breakout session, send an email to: breakoutsession@aeenewengland.org.

Registration is open to the public

* General Registration: $20 in advance (before December 3rd); Late registrations and walk-ins at the door: $40 (December 3rd through December 7th).

To register go to: <http://www.aeenewengland.org/Nov Meeting Info.html>

For more information contact: Gregg Snyder at GSnyder@Sebesta.com.

The AEE was the first organization to pioneer energy certification programs. AEE certification programs are recognized by the U.S. Dept. of Energy, U.S. Agency for International Development, State Department, Fortune 1000 companies, utilities, energy service companies, and countless others. When you earn an AEE Credential, you are distinguishing yourself among colleagues in your field and demonstrating high levels of experience, competence, and specialty knowledge.
