J.C. Cannistraro counts down to 50 with "Building with Intelligence 365"

March 01, 2012 - Owners Developers & Managers

The year 2012 marks J.C. Cannistraro's 49th year in the mechanical construction industry. During that time the company has been nationally recognized for its BIM and prefabrication capabilities, its quality work on complex projects, its corporate responsibility and its reputation for "building with intelligence."

As the company begins the countdown to its 50th Anniversary in 2013, Cannistraro is launching an all-new blog titled "Building with Intelligence 365." Over the course of this year, Cannistraro clients and colleagues can check the blog daily for new photos and stories about the projects, people and processes that make the company what it is today. At the end of year, after taking an extended look behind the scenes at one of the country's top contractors, stay tuned for an exciting announcement about the Cannistraro Gold Anniversary!

Until then readers can access the blog by visiting www.buildingwithintelligence.blogspot.com or www.cannistraro.com.
