Burke named director of field operations for Jones Lang LaSalle

April 05, 2012 - Front Section

According to Jones Lang LaSalle, Jeff Burke has been named senior vice president and director of field operations for the firm's New England construction group. Burke will serve as a liaison between the firm's office and field operations to ensure that business goals for project delivery are met. Additionally, Burke will lead the field staff in effectively and safely completing all assignments by implementing best practices for risk management on all of Jones Lang LaSalle's construction projects.

Previously Burke was senior construction superintendent for Jones Lang LaSalle where he was responsible for all phases of construction.

His projects have ranged from building renovations to construction of technical switch rooms, science labs and base buildings. Burke's recent projects include: IBM's Software Development and Support Center in Littleton; Crosstown Center, Boston; 670 Albany St. in BioSquare, Boston; New England Gift Center, Billerica; and Science Hotel at 780 Memorial Dr., Cambridge.

Burke is a LEED accredited professional. He holds a B.S. degree from Central Connecticut State University, and an A.D. degree from Wentworth Institute of Technology.
