North Branch Construction completes several construction and renovation projects at Kingswood High School

April 05, 2012 - Northern New England

Since the beginning of the year, North Branch Construction of Concord has completed several more construction and renovation phases of the Kingswood High School, Middle School, and Technical Center, including a renovated home economics classroom and lab for the middle school; a renovated kitchen, 5 renovated classrooms, a pantry, and laundry room for the high school; as well as the newly renovated construction trades classroom and shop in the technical center.

North Branch also complete several more newly renovated areas last month. These phases include the renovated industrial arts wood shop and computer lab, over 10,000 s/f of newly constructed classroom space in the middle school, two more science classrooms in the high school, and a brand new main office, lobby, and main entrance for the technical center. The technical center's agriculture greenhouse will also open this month.

Construction remains ahead schedule and North Branch expects to have all three schools complete by early this summer.
