Lutz Real Estate Investments and Harrison Street Real Estate Capital acquire two properties at UCONN

May 03, 2012 - Owners Developers & Managers

According to Adam Lutz, president & CEO of Lutz Real Estate Investments, in a joint venture with Harrison Street Real Estate Capital, the firm has entered the student housing market with the acquisition of Carriage House and Cedar Ridge at the University of Connecticut (UCONN).

Carriage House contains 225 Beds in 65 units and is considered the premier off-campus student housing location at UCONN. Cedar Ridge contains 228 Beds in 100 units and features an onsite leasing office, laundry facility, fitness center, and tennis/basketball courts. CW Capital LLC, located in Needham, Mass., provided a Freddie Mac CME loan to acquire both properties. Grant Ancevic of Student Housing Investments, LLC represented the buyer in this transaction.

This purchase represents the first acquisition in a series of student housing investments planned by the newly formed joint venture of Lutz Real Estate Investments and Harrison Street Real Estate Capital. The joint venture will target infill student housing communities that are located near major universities, under-managed, and present a value enhancement opportunity.

"The acquisition of Carriage House and Cedar Ridge represented a compelling opportunity to acquire two well located student housing communities at UCONN where the supply/demand fundamentals for off-campus housing are exceptional and the barriers to entry are significant," said Lutz.

"While we are excited about these investments at UCONN, our firm is even more excited about creating an investment platform with Harrison Street and expanding our relationship with them."
