Pascavage joins WorldTech Engineering as principal

June 28, 2012 - Green Buildings

Michael Pascavage, AIA, LEED AP has joined WorldTech Engineering. As principal, Pascavage adds architectural design and development solutions consulting to WorldTech's civil and traffic engineering platform. Pascavage brings with him 20 years of design, construction, and development experience as the former chairman of Cummings Properties and more recently launched the New England commercial development division of Skanska International.

Company president Rich Benevento said "In today's world of increased competition, complexity, and specialties, WorldTech's integration of professional architectural and engineering services further enhances our ability to provide comprehensive, cost effective, and innovative projects of the highest quality for our clients. The addition of Mike to our team is consistent with our goal of always exceeding our client's needs and expectations."

WorldTech's now full range of architectural and engineering services is an optimum blend of talent, experience, and professional values.
