Nason promoted by E.S. Boulos Co. to manager

August 02, 2012 - Northern New England

E.S. Boulos Company (ESB) has promoted Thomas Nason to the position of manager of project performance for the ESB commercial division. His responsibilities will include management and review of the commercial division's project management team, customer relations and new business development, and financial reporting with the company's upper management.

Nason joined the company as an estimator/assistant project manager in March 2002 and has progressed through the company, most recently serving as a senior project manager. In that capacity, he has worked on diverse prominent projects for ESB, including Oxford Casino in Maine, Hollywood Casino in Maryland, the M.C. Smith Federal Building renovation, as well as numerous health care facilities, and public and private sector projects, many of which have been high visibility projects within their respective communities.

Prior to joining ESB, Nason was president of Nason Electric.
