Scarvalas and Freud join Consigli Construction Co., Inc.

August 30, 2012 - Front Section

Consigli Construction Co., Inc. has added two construction industry veterans, Christopher Scarvalas and Michael Freud, to their construction management team.

Drawing on 30 years of construction management experience, Scarvalas joins Consigli as project executive. With expertise in managing all aspects of complex, multi-phased new building and renovation projects, Scarvalas has led projects for a variety of Greater Boston area academic, biomedical, healthcare and corporate clients such as Tufts University, Mass. Institute of Technology, Emmanuel College, Proctor & Gamble, Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Mass. General Hospital and Caritas St. Elizabeth's Medical Center.

Freud, project executive, brings to Consigli 25 years of experience in the construction industry, with specialized expertise in complex new construction, design-build, renovation and interior fit-out projects for life science facilities. Freud's local work includes projects for Shire, Genzyme Corp., Archemix Corp., Hypnion, Acusphere and Metabolix.

"The depth of experience and broad backgrounds in academic, healthcare, life science and corporate projects that Christopher Scarvalas and Michael Freud both bring to our organization help us to continue to serve our clients well and expand our ability to provide the most comprehensive and focused construction management services in the marketplace," said Anthony Consigli, president of Consigli Construction Co., Inc.
