Etelos Server for Google Apps Platform now available for download

February 20, 2008 - Front Section

Etelos Server for the Google Apps Platform is now available for public download in the Etelos Marketplace. Etelos also delivered the second Etelos application for Google Apps: a project management application called Etelos Projects for Google Apps.

Etelos Server for Google Apps is a platform that enables developers to focus on building a successful application, while solving business system and distribution problems for them. By doing the heavy lifting for developers, Etelos makes it easy to bring existing applications or build new applications that work with the Google Apps platform.

Etelos Server for Google Apps also gives developers access to the Etelos Marketplace to help them distribute and host the applications they've built. The Etelos Marketplace allows developers to control licensing, hosting, billing and support with an easy application, avoiding the need to build their own distribution functionality.
