November 15, 2012 - Front Section

According to Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage in New England, Mike Richardson has joined the Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage office in Boston- Charlestown as a sales associate. Richardson, 28, who played for the New England Patriots, will provide residential real estate services in all areas of Boston as well as the surrounding communities.

"We are pleased to welcome Mike to our office. Mike's skills in his previous career, as well as his determination and knowledge of the local community, make him a valuable asset to the Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage family," said Joe Sullivan, manager of the Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage office in Boston-Charlestown.

As a cornerback, Richardson was drafted by the New England Patriots in 2007. He transitioned into real estate after retiring from the NFL in 2011. A graduate of the University of Notre Dame's Mendoza College of Business, Richardson graduated with a degree in Marketing.

"Next to my love of football, I have always had a passion for real estate. I chose to affiliate with Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage because of its powerful marketing tools, exceptional educational programs and excellent reputation for providing superior service to clients," said Richardson. "I'm all about playing for a winning team and Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage is the best in the industry."
