Roundhill Construction completes build-out for Crashlytics

November 15, 2012 - Construction Design & Engineering

Roundhill Construction completed its build-out of office and lab space for Crashlytics at One Kendall Sq.

Roundhill Const. created 4,500 s/f of office space on a fast-track schedule for Crashlytics. Crashlytics will be based at Building 200 within One Kendall Sq.

Owned by The Beal Cos., One Kendall Sq. consists of nine office buildings, a seven-level parking facility lined for 1,530 vehicles and Landmark Theatre Corp.'s award-winning Kendall Sq. Cinemas, a nine-screen movie complex.

Renovated in the early 1980s, the campus includes a mix of office, biotech/lab, retail and storage space that makes it an attractive home for software and biotech companies that seek proximity to nearby Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Partnering with Roundhill and Beal on the project was R.E. Dinneen Architects & Planners.

The project came hard on the heels of the completion of another collaborative project involving Roundhill Const. and The Beal Cos. Roundhill recently completed the fit-up of 4,400 s/f of new office space for OneView Commerce, a provider of software solutions for retailers, at 70 Fargo St. in Boston on behalf of The Beal Cos. and its joint-venture partner, Rockpoint Group. Also known as Seaport Center, 70 Fargo St. is a 465,000 s/f, Class A office building located in the South Boston Seaport District.

"The build-out of office and lab space for Crashlytics continues the collaborative effort between Roundhill Construction and The Beal Cos.," said Ted Fish, president of Roundhill Construction. "In this case, Roundhill and Beal worked together effectively to successfully not only meet but to exceed an ambitious, fast-track time frame for Crashlytics to occupy its new space."
