Alvarado joins Fort Point Project Management as a project manager

June 06, 2013 - Owners Developers & Managers

According to Fort Point Project Management (Fort Point PM), Jesse Alvarado has joined the firm as project manager.

In this role, Alvarado will lead renovation and relocation projects for companies in the corporate sector. His proven success with Fort Point PM's client of 6 years, CVS Caremark, guarantees seamless transitions for organizations renovating and moving to new office space.

"We hired Jesse after two successful internships with us his junior and senior years at Wentworth. Given his customer centric attitude and technical knowledge, the client asked for him back once he graduated, we couldn't ask for more," said Christine Mosholder, Fort Point PM partner and founder. Prior to attending Wentworth Institute of Technology, Alvarado worked as an electrician apprentice. He joined as an intern at Fort Point PM in 2010, where he did his co-op with them at CVS Caremark. There he worked with the facilities team to relocate staff and equipment while minimizing employee downtime. In addition to the relocations, Alvarado assisted the design team by maintaining AutoCAD drawings to support the masterplanning effort.
