How do you contribute to your company and/or industry?

After twelve years in the real estate business, in the middle of a divorce, I took my children and with no other source of income, moved 70 miles away and started my own asset management and financial planning business. After building the business to approx. $200 million in assets under management, I sold it and now help businesses do a better job for their clients while improving their bottom line, and work with individuals to help them live a successful life and realize their dreams.

My book Above All Else, Success in Life and Business was published in 2012.
