Hoffmann Architects welcomes Susca as new shareholder

August 15, 2013 - Connecticut

Hoffmann Architects, Inc., an architecture and engineering firm specializing in the rehabilitation of building exteriors, accepted a joint ownership opportunity by a member of the firm's senior staff.

Owner and president of Hoffmann Architects, John Hoffmann, FAIA recognized the loyalty and achievement of senior engineer Steven Susca, PE with an offer of part ownership in the specialty design and rehabilitation firm he founded in 1977.

Susca joins the seven company executives who became shareholders in 2011: executive vice president Russell Sanders, AIA; senior vice president Arthur Sanders, AIA; senior vice president Richard Kadlubowski, AIA; senior vice president Craig Hargrove, AIA, LEED AP; chief financial officer Avi Kamrat; director of engineering Lawrence Keenan, AIA, PE; and senior architect Juan Kuriyama, AIA.
