Worth Avenue Capital closes $565,000 loan

September 05, 2013 - Front Section

Worth Avenue Capital, LLC (WAC) closed a $565,000 commercial loan for an electrical contractor that is based in Northwestern Conn. The loan proceeds were used to restructure the company's long term debt as well as provide them with additional short term working capital for their everyday cash requirements. The loan was funded by a Conn. based community bank.

WAC's client was not only having difficulty on its own finding a new commercial funding source but it also was having trouble finding the necessary time to undertake this time consuming search. Through WAC's efforts, the company's principals were able to refocus their efforts on operating their company while WAC was delivering to the company a new commercial funding source who provided the necessary capital that the company was seeking. WAC specializes in arranging debt financing for small businesses and real estate developers/investors and also handles bank workouts for those same clients.
