Fort Point Project Management hires Angquist as project manager

September 05, 2013 - Owners Developers & Managers

According to Fort Point Project Management (Fort Point PM), a provider of real estate project management and relocation services, Linda Angquist has joined the firm as project manager.

In this role, Angquist will lead renovation and relocation projects for companies in the high tech, life sciences and corporate sectors. Her proven successes with clients like Sanofi Genzyme and Pearson Education guarantee seamless transitions for employees moving to new work space.

"Linda's positive attitude and technology savvy are a welcomed addition to the Fort Point PM team," said Steve Fox, partner and founder of Fort Point PM.

Prior to joining Fort Point, Angquist managed real estate projects at Astrazeneca Research & Development where she coordinated finish upgrades, furniture reconfigurations and employee relocations.

She holds a bachelors of science in Facilities Planning and Management from Wentworth Institute of Technology and spends her free time volunteering for various charities while staying active in the track and field community.

Fort Point Project Management is a leading provider of project management and relocation management services for lab, academic and corporate projects. Experienced project managers with engineering, facilities management and architectural expertise guarantee successful transitions to new locations. As an owner's representative, Fort Point PM will coordinate the design, engineering, IT, construction, furniture procurement and ultimately the relocation of your business to a new site.
