ASM forms new Young Professional Group

November 14, 2013 - Construction Design & Engineering

Responding to an outpouring of interest from within our membership, ASM is excited to announce the formation of a new Young Professional's group. The mission of the group is to develop, engage, and empower young professionals to grow and flourish in the Mass. Subcontractor industry through unique networking and programming events.

Jessica Blake of Salem Glass and Cassie Johnston of Fall River Electrical are chairing a steering committee and are reaching out to member firms to assemble a list of people interested in being part of the group . Any employee of a member firm, up to 39 years of age is eligible to participate. As Jessica explained, "We are looking to strengthen the subcontractor community by growing its young leaders and retaining its great talent."

The group is planning to have its first kickoff event at the beginning of the New Year! For more information, contact ASM.
