Bartel named vice president of operations at Schimenti Construction

November 21, 2013 - Spotlights

According to Schimenti Construction Company, Gregg Bartel has been named vice president of operations. In this role, Bartel will oversee the company's entire field operations function, which includes driving the successful execution of field operations and corporate strategic initiatives. Coordinating with other departments, he will ensure that construction projects meet the company's objectives of schedule performance, cost, quality and safety.

"Gregg is a dynamic and proven leader with experience that includes directing complex projects, developing strategies and leading teams to accomplish key corporate initiatives," said Matthew Schimenti, president. "We searched for quite some time to fill this essential position and are very pleased to welcome Gregg to our leadership team."
