What are your predictions for commercial real estate in 2014?

December 27, 2013 - Spotlights

My prediction for the commercial real estate market in 2014 is continued growth and absorption in all sectors. I feel that core assets and trophy properties will continue to outperform the general market. In addition, I see interest rates rising less than one hundred basis points. All these factors point to a robust 2014.
