Berard Martel hires Gillon as project captain

May 15, 2014 - Construction Design & Engineering

Berard Martel Architecture, Inc. has hired Jamie Gillon as a technical support/project captain. Gillon is a graduate of the Roger Williams University Masters in Architecture Program and comes to Berard Martel with 10 years experience in construction project design, document management and construction support.

Past experience with all construction delivery methods for municipal, state and other public funded projects have prepared him for the complexities of meeting the goals of modern Project Program requirements.
