September 26, 2014 - Front Section

The Cherrytree Group, atax credit broker, syndicator and consulting firm, will hold their first western Massachusetts conference, discussing "Obtaining a Brownfields: Why You May Be Closer than You Think," on October 14 at the Springfield Sheraton Hotel (Monarch Place, Springfield). The conference is scheduled to run from 7:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.; full breakfast will be served.

The Springfield conference will include the same programming as the company's Boston Tax Credit Conference held earlier this year, and is intended to accommodate western Massachusetts-based LSPs and environmental professionals.

The event will feature a panel of guest speakers, including Kerry Bowie (director of Brownfields and environmental justice, Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection), Richard Cote, P.E., LSP (principal and manager of engineering, Comprehensive Environmental Inc.), and Warren Kirshenbaum (president of Cherrytree Group).

Cherrytree Group will provide 2.0 technical credits for attending LSPs. (The event is free for non-credit-seeking attendees and $60 for LSPs registering for credit.)

"The brownfields conference we held this spring in Boston was such a great success that we thought it made sense to offer this event to western Massachusetts professionals," said Warren Kirshenbaum. "We're looking forward to discussing specific situations relevant to the region as we also work to clarify this beneficial but easily misunderstood tax credit opportunity."
