Burke of D.F. Pray promoted to executive vice president

September 26, 2014 - Retail

D.F. Pray, a Massachusetts general contracting and construction management company, has promoted Michael Burke from senior vice president to executive vice president.

A longtime employee of D.F. Pray, Burke brings to the table three decades of experience in all facets of the firm from estimating, business development, and construction operations with a focus on large projects. He has helped to grow D.F. Pray's business and establish long-lasting relationships with the firm's largest clients nationwide. Some of Burke's clients include CVS, Titleist, Chic-fil-A, Atria, and Thermo Fisher Scientific.

Scott Pray, president of D.F. Pray said, "Mike is a consummate professional, evidenced by his ability to integrate his personal knowledge and expertise into each of his projects and through his leadership. He has helped our company grow in ways we couldn't have anticipated. For the last thirty years Michael's work ethic and constant evolution has helped make D.F. Pray an industry leader. It is with great pleasure that he now assumes the position of executive vice president, from where he will help to continue his guidance and grow the company in the future."
