Hurlburt joins White Wood Kitchens as project manager

October 02, 2014 - Front Section

White Wood Kitchens has hired Kathy Hurlburt as a kitchen designer and project manager.

With twelve years of industry experience, Hurlburt previously worked as a project coordinator at Kitchen and Bath Details. In this position she provided support to the head designer, managed orders, acted as the point of contact for customers and provided on-site support. Her projects range from stunning kitchen remodels and graceful spa baths to custom entertainment consoles and functional offices. Her attention to detail is attributed to her training as an engineer. Hurlburt studied Engineering at Northeastern University and continues to implement the skills she acquired in her role as a designer.

"I am thrilled to have Kathy working with us," said Gail O'Rourke, president of White Wood Kitchens. "I respect her quality of work, her enthusiasm and her range of style. I am excited to see what is ahead for us."

Owned and operated by O'Rourke, White Wood Kitchens offers full service kitchen design and project management services. The showroom carries a number of quality cabinet lines, a large selection of granite, silestone, cambria and marble as well as an exciting range of cabinet hardware.
