

CELEBRATING
55 YEARS

nerej

O&G Industries awarded contract to renovate Bowen Field Complex at James Hillhouse High School

September 03, 2015 - Owners Developers & Managers

O&G Industries, a nearly century-old construction company headquartered in Connecticut, was recently awarded a contract to renovate the Bowen Field Complex at James Hillhouse High School. The project includes a complete renovation of the playing surface and facilities. A new synthetic turf field, 8-lane synthetic track and lighting towers will be installed allowing the first night game to be played at the multi-purpose field. New structures housing a locker room and public restroom will be constructed while the existing gatehouse will be renovated. Landscape construction on the project includes the installation of new bleachers, sidewalks, site walls and landscaping features.

"We're happy to be working with the city of New Haven and The S/L/A/M Collaborative to bring this historical complex back to life" said O&G project executive Mark Jeffko. Work at the site began in April and is expected to be completed in early 2016. The project architect is The S/L/A/M Collaborative. O&G is the construction manager for the project.

O&G Industries is one of the Northeast's leading providers of construction services and products. Our resume includes over 900 highly-skilled construction industry professionals, 1,900 pieces of the industry's most well-maintained equipment and nearly a century of construction industry knowledge spanning numerous client-industry segments. Combined with a broad portfolio of services and products, O&G is uniquely positioned as one of the most diversified construction companies in the region. O&G is headquartered in Torrington, Conn.

New England Real Estate Journal - 17 Accord Park Drive #207, Norwell MA 02061 - (781) 878-4540