New computer courses offered to ASM members

May 15, 2008 - Construction Design & Engineering

ASM has teamed up with New Horizons Computer Learning Centers to make specialized computer training available to ASM members at reduced rates. The first course will be an introductory level workshop on Excel 2003, covering all aspects of setting up worksheets and workbooks, performing calculations and customizing layout. It will be held Tuesday, June 17 at New Horizon's state-of-the-art facilities in Waltham. Advance registration is required, and the course must have a minimum of 10 students to proceed.
