Thru the Lens: Bowdoin participates in Builders' Day at Cradles to Crayons

March 31, 2017 - Front Section

Brighton, MA On March 2, Bowdoin Construction participated in Builders' Day at Cradles to Crayons, where several organizations from engineering, architecture and construction firms came together for networking and volunteering. Ten employees from Bowdoin Construction helped sort, size and package goods to be placed in KidPacks for the children Cradles to Crayons serves. It was a very rewarding experience.

Bowdoin participated in Builders' Day at Cradles to Crayons.

For weeks before the event, Bowdoin held a product drive to collect clothing, toys, diapers and hygiene products. We were able to donate a truckload of items to Cradles for Crayons.

Cradles to Crayons provides children from birth through age 12, living in homeless or low-income situations, with the essential items they need to thrive – at home, at school and at play. They supply these items free of charge by engaging and connecting communities that have with communities that need.
