Cambridge, MA Prellwitz Chilinski Associates (PCA) promoted Nidhi John, AIA LEED AP, Leslie Simpson and Rob Hagan, AIA, LEED AP.

Senior associate John has developed a devoted following among PCA's clients through her thoughtful approach to academic and residential projects. Currently, she is working with Samuels /Eden Properties on two high profile multifamily housing projects – Goddard House Adaptive Reuse in Jamaica Plain and 89 Brighton Ave. in Brighton - in addition to work on phased renovations at Mount Wachusett and Bunker Hill Community Colleges.

Since joining PCA, human resources manager-associate Simpson has made major contributions to PCA's unique office culture. Seeking feedback from the staff, she analyzes her findings to help management formulate real-time actions that sustain the culture at PCA.

Associate Hagan has been a key contributor to PCA's growing stature as one of the major mixed-use planning and design firms in Boston. As a team leader on the redevelopment of the six-block Washington Village site in South Boston, he has grasped opportunities to design great places, transforming the physical environment to make a difference in people's everyday lives.
