Leominster, MA Daniel Spinney has joined Green Leaf Construction as director of operations.

Spinney joins Green Leaf after 34 years with Cutler Associates where he developed a portfolio of healthcare, scholastic and commercial project experience. In his new role at Green Leaf, Spinney will round out the executive leadership team, managing the company's construction and project management operations.

"We created the position of director of operations to help sustain the significant growth we've experienced over the past year. We feel very fortunate that, of all the places a person with his expertise could go, Dan chose to join the Green Leaf team. He brings a high level of knowledge in the planning and execution of construction operations, which will enable us to continue to provide a high level of service as we grow," said Tom Dube, chief operating officer of Green Leaf. "Clients and employees alike enjoy working with him because of his project-first, customer-centric approach, which is tailor made for Green Leaf's business model."
