Colliers Project Management opens Providence office

August 03, 2018 - Front Section

Providence, RI Colliers Project Management (formerly Strategic Building Solutions) has opened a new downtown location at 72 Pine St.

Colliers has been a proud partner of numerous clients throughout the state for decades, dedicated to guiding clients through all aspects of the planning, design, construction, and commissioning aspects of building projects through the provision of owner's project management (OPM) and commissioning & energy services.

"We are excited to be expanding in Providence," said Jon Winikur, executive managing director at Colliers Project Management. "Our growth in Rhode Island has been fueled by the many successful relationships we have created and continuous reinvestment in our abilities to better serve the community. We very much look forward to continuing the collaboration we have had with so many great people in R.I. and helping to make a great place to work and live even better."
