Shepley Bulfinch opens Hartford office

April 19, 2019 - Connecticut

Carole Wedge

Hartford, CT Shepley Bulfinch, a national architecture and design firm, has opened a new office in the city at 100 Allyn St. This is the firm's fourth office, joining offices in Boston, Houston, and Phoenix.

With an office in the city, Shepley Bulfinch is poised to better serve the needs of clients in the Connecticut and Western Massachusetts region by providing architecture, planning, and interior design solutions for leading institutions in education and healthcare, as well as urban development and civic organizations.

"An office in Hartford gives us the ability to pursue new clients and projects in the region," said Carole Wedge, FAIA, LEED AP, CEO of Shepley Bulfinch. "We have worked in Connecticut and Western Massachusetts for over 45 years for numerous academic and healthcare clients, and we are excited to welcome new leadership to the firm who have long standing experience in the region."
