Hobson joins Green Site Services Group as controller

December 20, 2019 - Construction Design & Engineering

Bellingham, MA Marie Hobson has joined Green Site Services Group, Inc. as its new controller.

Hobson will guide financial decisions and protect assets by establishing, monitoring, and enforcing policies, procedures and internal controls. In addition to those duties, Hobson will also be taking over the role of office manager.

“We are excited to welcome Marie to our fast-growing senior team, her industry specific experience will help guide our expansion” said Matthew Clark, president of Green Site Services Group.

Hobson has 24 years of experience in the construction trades industry.

Green Site Services is a full-service general contracting and construction services firm that specializes in technically challenging commercial and industrial projects of varying size, location and complexity. The company was founded by Matthew and Thomas Clark, who previously co-founded TMC Environmental which was later purchased by NRC, which has since become one of the largest environmental and disaster recovery service companies in the United States.
