Stebbins of PROCON awarded Business Excellence Award in Real Estate and Construction for Large Orgs.

November 06, 2020 - Northern New England

Mark Stebbins

Hooksett, NH According to PROCON, Mark Stebbins, chairman and CEO was awarded the 2020 Business Excellence Award in Real Estate and Construction for large organizations from NH Business Review. The annual awards recognize New Hampshire's top business executives for their imagination, industriousness, innovation, and achievements.

It is Stebbins who has built PROCON's reputation as a leader in the construction industry and generous supporter of its community nonprofits. Stebbins is the third generation to lead PROCON, which is celebrating 85 years in business.

Under his leadership for the last 40 years, PROCON has grown from a company that only performed construction services with sales of less than $5 million to designing and building projects throughout the Northeast with $200 million in revenue.

PROCON has 95% repeat business –a statistic that is virtually unheard of in the construction industry—and employee turnover of less than 6%.

Stebbins prides himself on the family atmosphere at PROCON, and truly cares about his employees and his community at large. When COVID hit, Stebbins offered Granite United Way a $100,000 challenge match to help those most in need. He also worked with the Manchester Boys & Girls Club to completely renovate Camp Foster and also gave $1 million toward their goal with a challenge match. Stebbins knows the value of success is enjoying it with those around us.

“This is an exciting award for the entire company. We are so proud to be recognized as a business excellence award recipient.” Tracey Pelton, executive director of business development and marketing who work tirelessly to cultivate and grow the local and statewide economy.

“We are proud to honor this year’s powerhouse crop of Business Excellence Awards recipients, all of whom have made a great impact, not only within their industries, but within their local communities, and beyond,” said Jeff Feingold, editor of NH Business Review. “Congratulations to Mark and all of this year’s recipients, who continue to make a positive impact on the Granite State, especially in this time of uncertainty.”
