Guilford, CT The Connecticut CCIM Chapter has recognized one chapter member who recently earned the Certified Commercial Investment Member designation, the global standard for professional achievement, from the CCIM Institute. Headquartered in Chicago, CCIM Institute is one of the largest global commercial real estate networks.

Peter Brooks, CCIM, real estate development manager, TBG Food Acquisition Corp., Tuckahoe, N.Y. was among more than 113 industry professionals who earned the CCIM designation during the organization's special summer CCIM Comprehensive Exam testing session, which was held across three days and 10 cities in the U.S. and Canada. The testing was postponed from the regularly scheduled spring testing due to the COVID-19 pandemic. To ensure the safety of candidates, instructors, and exam proctors alike, current recommended safety protocols were used throughout Course Concepts Review sessions and the exam itself.

"Now, more than ever, commercial real estate investors and operators need the expertise and sophisticated analysis that CCIMs are known for," said Eddie Blanton, CCIM, 2020 global president of CCIM Institute. "We 'changed the game' this past week with our candidates taking the exam in 10 different locations with the support of local chapters and regional officers. It was important that the institute honor these individuals and all their hard work and commitment over the years toward earning this esteemed designation and create a safe environment to allow them a chance to sit for the exam and finish what they started. I've been lucky to see many new CCIM designees receive their lapel pin over the years, but I'm especially proud of this group."

To earn the CCIM designation, commercial real estate professionals must complete more than 160 hours of case-study driven education covering topics such as interest-based negotiation, financial analysis, market analysis, user decision analysis, investment analysis, and ethics in commercial investment real estate. Candidates must also compile a portfolio demonstrating the depth of their commercial real estate experience and pass a comprehensive examination.

CCIM Institute is a global community of 13,000 members and more than 50 chapters in 30 countries that educates and connects the world's leading experts in investment strategy, financial analysis, and market analysis.
