Rasmussen and Ward join Gawron Turgeon

April 02, 2021 - Northern New England

Eric Rasmussen

Hilary Ward

Scarborough, ME Gawron Turgeon Architects, P.C., (GTA) has made two new hires to its team.

Eric Rasmussen joins GTA as a project manager. Rasmussen has over two decades of experience in a diverse range of markets including senior living, assisted living, residential, educational, healthcare, commercial and historic preservation. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Gettysburg College and a Master of Architecture degree from Boston Architectural College.

Hilary Ward, AIA, NCARB, has been hired as a project architect. Over the past 20 years, Ward has applied her design expertise to senior living, residential, energy efficient, commercial, federal and state projects. Her immediate focus will be on the senior living market. Ward holds a Bachelor of Architecture degree from Carnegie Mellon University.

“With their diverse project experience and extensive knowledge of senior living design, Hilary and Eric are talented additions to our architecture department,” said Rebecca Dillon, principal. “Their collaborative approaches and problem-solving abilities will greatly benefit both our team and our clients.”
