These two incredibly fun and unique pop-ups instantly grew in popularity when they first debuted and guests look forward to their return each year. As we head into spring and warmer weather, we're excited to safely welcome back two of the city's hottest outdoor venues," said Emily Soukas, senior manager, activations & partnerships, Seaport at WS Development.

Il Giardino by Tuscan Kitchen

Il Giardino by Tuscan Kitchen - Open Early May – Mid-October

Il Giardino is Tuscan Kitchen's outdoor dining experience and one of the most expansive, socially-distant outdoor dining spaces in the City of Boston. Spanning 23,000 sq. ft., the 2021 version of Il Giardino will bring sun-seekers a refreshed artisan Italian experience with a wide-ranging menu, raw bar, Aperol spritz cart, pizza oven, refreshing cocktails and more. Tuscan Kitchen once again partnered with WS Development, the primary developer behind the Seaport neighborhood, to bring this highly popular restaurant concept back for its second season. Decked with bistro-style lighting, intricate topiaries and colorful floral arrangements, the garden-inspired tent will include a spacious patio and lounge setups as well as a more formal dining experience with additional seating this year. The walkway at the restaurant's entrance will have Instagram worthy moments inspired by Italy, inclusive of a light-up marquee with Italian phrases, a cutout Fiat and Vespa, and Italian monuments along with greenery and florals.

On the menu are over 30 artisan specialties from Tuscan Kitchen Seaport executive chef Nimesh Maharjan like antipasti options and fresh salads; bar crudo sea treasures including oysters, jumbo shrimp and clams; pizzas that will be fired in a custom Italy imported outdoor oven; homemade pasta creations; and entrees for carnivores and pescatarians alike. The offerings are rounded out by Tuscan's signature handspun gelato as well as a collection of beers, wines, and summer sippers. Tuscan cocktail specialties will be full of bright, tropical flavors including tiki inspired beverages, thirst quenchers Aperol and Rosé Spritzers, and dozens of other coastal driven cocktails.
