CBRE arranges sale of 209,643 s/f industrial building in Norton, MA

July 02, 2021 - Front Section

Norton, MA CBRE has arranged the sale of a 209,643 s/f, class A industrial facility located at 176 South Washington St. Black Creek Group, a leading real estate investment management firm, acquired the asset, which is their first industrial purchase in the Greater Boston market. The sale price was not disclosed.

A CBRE team comprised of Scott Dragos, Chris Skeffington, Doug Jacoby, Roy Sandeman, Tim Mulhall, Tony Hayes and Daniel Hines represented the seller, Paradigm Capital Advisors, during the off-market transaction.

“The purchase of 176 South Washington turned out to be an excellent opportunity for Black Creek Group to begin expanding their footprint in Greater Boston,” said Skeffington. “It was a pleasure to represent Paradigm in this transaction and our team is delighted to have assisted with the successful execution of their business plan through the lease-up and disposition.”

Built in 1986, 176 South Washington St. is 100% leased to U.S. Cabinet Depot. The property features 28’ clear height, an ESFR sprinkler system, 20 docks, two drive-ins, and I-495 South visibility with signage capabilities. The facility is located adjacent to Myles Standish Industrial Park with access to I-495, providing regional access and connectivity to major population centers such as Boston (32 miles), Providence (20 miles) and Worcester (45 miles).
